

...Heroes & Heroines...

A hero or heroine is often the main character in a story. They have skills, powers, or abilities that other characters do not have. They may have a clever mind, like Sherlock Holmes, be incredibly strong, like Superman, or be very brave like Wonder Woman. The hero or heroine could also be an everyday person, like policemen, fire women, doctors, and nurses ect...

Heroes and heroines will always try to do the right thing.

...Villains...

A villain is a character that does bad or evil things. There are many types of villains that appear in films or stories and in real life. Villains have certain character traits that make them infamous. They may be powerful, clever, or angry and will stop at nothing to achieve their goal. Examples of villains are Darth Vader from Star Wars, Scar from Lion King or the Wicked Witch of the West from The Wizard of Oz.

...Heroes & Heroines...

History

Harriet Tubman (1820 – 1913)

Harriet was a slave who escaped and risked her own life to free other slaves through the Underground Railroad. She spent her life helping others and working to gain equal rights.

Mother Teresa (1910 – 1997)

Mother Teresa was a nun who spent her life working for charities to help the sick and poor. She received many awards for her work and was made a saint.

Martin Luther King (1929 – 1968)

Martin stood up for African American rights. He believed in non-violence and was a strong leader. He gave a very famous speech called I Have a Dream.

...HEROES & VILLAINS...

...Music...

Music plays an important part in films. It is there to make the audience feel a certain way or used to add to the effect of the story, music can be linked to characters or events in the story. A person who writes music is called a composer.

For a hero in a film, the music may sound happy, be fairly high-pitched and have a fast tempo. For a villain, the music may sound scary, be low-pitched and have a slow tempo.

Tempo – the speed of the music

Pitch – The high & low sounds

...Everyday heroes and heroines...

Everyday heroes and heroines can be ANYONE! They could be a member of the emergency services, such as a firefighter, or a person who decides to take a risk and help someone else. They are brave and can be admired for their actions. They do not usually decide to become a hero or heroine but become one because of their actions. They are people who make life better for others. There are many charities & organisations that have been set up to help those in need.

RSPCA – this is a charity that helps to prevent cruelty to animals.

St John Ambulance – this is a UK first aid charity that provides medical support at events and helps the NHS to respond to 999 calls.

The United Nations – this is an organisation that has around 200 countries working together to secure peace, a safe environment, human rights and equality in the world.