Food

Food plays an important part in Mexican culture. Many Mexican foods can be traced back thousands of years to the Aztecs and Maya and some contain flavours from other countries, including Spain. Traditional Mexican foods include chocolate, corn tortillas, avocados and beans. Popular Mexican dishes may contain a mixture of these ingredients, such as enchiladas, guacamole or churros with chocolate.

Music

Music and dance are essential to the culture of Mexico. Each region of Mexico has traditional dances that are accompanied by music and feature colourful costumes. Maya

The Maya were a group of indigenous people who lived in Mexico and other parts of Central America over 3,000 years ago. The Maya were experts in farming, poetry, writing and maths. Around AD 900, the Maya civilisation began to decline and the people moved into small villages, rather than staying in the great villages they had built. There are still some Maya people today who follow the lifestyle, language and tradition of the ancient Maya.

Maya Calendar

The Maya created a calendar that was based on their understanding of maths and astronomy. It was highly complex and used three different calendars to record the days, months and years.

El Castillo

El Castillo is a Maya temple in Chichen Itza. During the spring and autumn equinox, the sun casts a shadow that slithers down the side of the temple like a snake.

Festivals and Celebrations

Mexican people celebrate many different festivals and special days across the year. They are a central part of Mexican culture and may involve music, food, dancing and special clothes.

Dia de los Muertos (Day of the Dead)

This festival takes place during the first two days of November. It is a positive celebration to remember loved ones who have died. Families set up brightly decorated altars with photographs of the deceased. Relatives place their loved ones' favourite foods on altars and skeleton costumes and skull decorations are popular.

Frida Kahlo

Frida Kahlo is considered to be one of the most important artists of modern times. She was famous for painting self-portraits (pictures of herself) but she was particularly famous for painting women as strong people.
